MONTHLY MESSAGE

EXPLORE THE PATIO

Welcome to the dog days of summer. One thing this means is that summer is flying by, so you best get out and enjoy it. And along that line I'll make a pitch for our Garden Club and our efforts to make the patio an enjoyable place to visit, hang out, and maybe even take a picture or two of some interesting plants that catch your eye.

The ground planters are all well populated with greenery and the flower colors are coming into their own. The butterflies have discovered the flowers. Many of the plants will need another year or two to develop stature, but they look good today.

Most of the plants are transplants or divides from club members' gardens, with every member contributing some personal prize. The herb garden was grown from seed and mothered over by Dottie Yacek-Matulis. Two planters full of annual flowers are from seeds donated by a center member. We needed to buy some perennial plants to be future centerpieces, and Park and Rec supported that element. Terry Stevens donated a much needed lightweight hose. Many thanks to those who contributed plants and labor.

Check out the patio, ask club members questions, or come to a meeting (the 2nd and 4th Wednesdays). For now it is hot and bright out on the patio, but mornings are a bit shady and not too hot. Cooler weather is not that far off when socializing on the patio will be a treat.

By the time you read this Dottie will have laid out the first 'Fresh Herb Day', sharing the herbs grown on the patio (Mondays about noon, in the Great Room).

Thanks for reading this. Keep busy, enjoy life and if you want to get your hands dirty join us. We know how and we can always use the help.

KEEPING SENIORS INFORMED
FOCUS ON FIBER

The health benefits of fiber are numerous and we need a plan to include a sufficient amount of each day into our food intake. One of the most important benefits is to help prevent against colorectal cancer. Fiber helps to prevent constipation and dilutes harmful compounds in the colon. Avoiding constipation can help prevent painful hemorrhoids.

Some types of fiber nourish your gut's healthy bacteria and lead to substances that help lower cholesterol levels. Fiber helps improve the way your body responds to its insulin and helps stabilize blood sugar and may assist in preventing type 2 diabetes. Fiber can control appetite by giving a feeling of fullness therefore assisting in your efforts at weight management.

So, what are some sources of fiber? Fiber is in many of the foods we eat every day but the question is to eat enough of them to gain the beneficial effects and to avoid the foods which do not provide fiber (like white bread). Think of fruits, vegetable and WHOLE grains as the primary sources. Women need about 20-25 grams per day and men need about 30-35 grams. Read labels to see how much fiber you are getting.

By choosing WHOLE grains and fewer refined or processed grains (such as white bread and regular pasta) you will get more fiber, minerals and vitamins. Whole grains retain the fiber rich bran and the "germ" of the grain which contains many nutrients. Refined grains lose much of the health boosting components during processing. Hearty whole grains include brown rice, oatmeal (not instant), corn, barley, bulgur, farro, wheat berries and whole wheat pasta.

Canned beans can provide a ready source of fiber and can be mixed in with many other foods such as macaroni, soups and salads. Rinse and drain canned beans before using to reduce the sodium content. Plan to include some vegetables with every meal. Yes, even at breakfast. Make a vegetable omelet. At lunch add them to your sandwich.

Read cereal labels and choose ones with the most fiber per serving. You will be surprised to find some highly advertised ones contain as little as one gram per serving. Some high fiber cereals include shredded wheat (plain), raisin, bran regular oatmeal and Uncle Sam. For a satisfying crunch and a health boost, sprinkle nuts or seeds or cereal, cottage cheese and salads. FIBER IS YOUR FRIEND!
